

Exercises

135.1 Put in the correct preposition. If no preposition is necessary, leave the space empty.

- Some students were suspected of cheating in the exam.
- Are you going to apologise for what you did?
- The apartment consists of three rooms, a kitchen and bathroom.
- I was accused of lying, but I was telling the truth.
- We finished our meal, paid for the bill, and left the restaurant.
- The accident was my fault, so I had to pay for the repairs.
- Some people are dying of hunger, while others eat too much.
- I called Helen to thank her for the present she sent me.
- The government is popular. Most people approve of what they're doing.
- Do you blame the government for the economic situation?
- When something goes wrong, you always blame it on other people.

135.2 Complete the second sentence so that it means the same as the first.

- Sue said that I was selfish.
Sue accused me of being selfish.
- The misunderstanding was my fault, so I apologised.
I apologised for the misunderstanding.
- Jane won the tournament, so I congratulated her.
I congratulated her on winning the tournament.
- He has enemies, and he has a bodyguard to protect him.
He has a bodyguard to protect him from his enemies.
- There are eleven players in a football team.
A football team consists of eleven players.
- Sandra eats only bread and eggs.
Sandra lives on bread and eggs.
- You can't say that your problems are my fault.
You can't blame your problems on me.

135.3 Complete the sentences using these verbs (in the correct form) + a preposition:

accuse   apologise   ~~approve~~   congratulate   depend   live   pay   suffer

- His parents don't approve of what he does, but they can't stop him.
- When you went to the theatre with Paul, who paid for the tickets?
- It's not pleasant when you are accused of something you didn't do.
- We hope to go to the beach tomorrow, but it depends on the weather.
- Things are cheap there. You can live on very little money.
- You were rude to Lisa. I think you should apologise to her.
- Alex suffers from back pain. He spends too much time working at his desk.
- When I saw David, I congratulated him on passing his driving test.

135.4 Put in the correct preposition. If no preposition is necessary, leave the space empty.

- I'll never forgive them for what they did.
- They wore warm clothes to protect themselves from the cold.
- You know you can always rely on me if you need any help.
- Sophie doesn't have enough money to pay for her college fees.
- She's often unwell. She suffers from very bad headaches.
- I don't know whether I'll go out tonight. It depends on how I feel.
- She hasn't got a job. She depends on her parents for money.
- My usual breakfast consists of fruit, cereal and coffee.
- I complimented her on her English. She spoke really well.